LOCAL FIREMEN DELEGATION LARGEST IN KANE

AMERICAN LEGION ATHLETES IN CONTESTS TODAY; COUNTY POSTS BACK MEMORIAL HALL PLAN

With the largest delegation in line, the Smethport firemen made an excellent showing in the parade at Kane on Wednesday afternoon.

Marching at the head of the second division, with the Smethport Band leading, the local volunteer fire fighters "snapped it up" in great style, and brought forth much favorable comment upon their appearance from the crowds which lined the pavements.

A prize of $20 went to the local department for having the largest delegation.

Bradford was chosen as the location for next year's convention, although the date was not settled. Fire Chief Henderson, of that city, was elected president for the ensuing year.

The formation of the parade was as follows:

First division—Kane fire police, chief burgess and city council in automobiles; Emporium Band; visiting fire chiefs; Bradford Volunteer Firemen's Association; Star Hose Company Port Allegany; Citizens Hose Company, Mt. Jewett.

Second division—Smethport Band; Smethport fire department; Capital City Hose Company, Ridgway; Sheffield Fife and Drum Corps; Crystal Hose Company, St. Marys.

Third division—Kane Band; Rescue Hose Company, No. 1; Griffith Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1; Fountain Hose Company, No. 2; Pennsylvania Railroad Fire Company, No. 5.

HIT OVER THE HEAD AND BITTEN ON THE THUMB.

During a fight at Mt. Jewett on Tuesday night, George Gable, of that place, claims he was assaulted by Frank Rizzo, a fellow townsman, who is alleged to have struck Gable over the head with a club, and then during the ensuing scuffle bit his thumb severely.

Rizzo was held for court under $500 bail on the assault and battery charge.

Rizzo alleged that Gable had been making desultory remarks concerning his activities as a bootlegger, and he sought to retaliate.

BUSH—FASSETT

Miss Marian Bush, daughter of Mrs. Etta Bush, of this place, and Ellison Fassett of Canton, Pa., were united in marriage Tuesday, August 16th at a Buffalo Baptist Church. Rev. George Biggs officated at the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony the happy pair left for a bridal tour in Michigan. After they return they will make their home in Brockwayville, Pa

The bride taught the second grade in the school here last year, and was exceedingly popular

Mr. Fassett is a promising young engineer, who is engaged in coal mining projects in Brockwayville.

The Miner unites with a large circle of friends in extending its congratulations.

MAYO-ALDERFER.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Mayo announce the marriage of their daughter, Katharine, to Mr. Clement Joseph Alderfer, of Port Allegany.

The ceremony occurred at 4 p. m. Saturday, August 20, 1921 at the home of her parents Rev. Arthur Gregson, of the M. E. Church, officiating.

After September 1, Mr. and Mrs. Alderfer will be at home at Port Allegany.

The Miner, together with a host of friends, extends its congratulations.

WIN CUP IN TENNIS MATCH

Theron Lyle and William A. Brownell, of Smethport, won two loving cups as awards in the annual tournament of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Tennis Association, at Erie. The prizes were given them as the doubles champions of the meet.

The tournament was played off on the courts of the Erie Tennis Club near Kahkwa Inn. At the banquet and business meeting held at the Inn, Scott F. Redfield retired as vice president of the association, and Hamlin Redfield was elected a director.

The other members of the party who attended the tournament were Mr. and Mrs. Scott F. Redfield, William Gallup, Francis Hussey, Robert Hamilton, Mortimer Bell, Robert and Hamlin Redfield, and Redfield Gillett.

Lyle and Brownell were among the last 16 of the original 69 in the singles play. Lyle lost to the winner of the singles championship

COUNTY CONVENTION OF THE W. C. T. U. AT PORT ALLEGANY.

The annual county convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the First Baptist Church, Port Allegany, Pa., Tuesday and Wednesday, August 30 and 31.

First session opens at 1:30 Tuesday p. m.

A very interesting and instructive program has been prepared with Miss Amanda Landis, vice president of Pennsylvania W. C. T. U., as speaker Tuesday evening.

A large attendance is desired and it is hoped that the Smethport Union will be well represented. Free entertainment for W. C. T. U. members.

WELLSVILLE SWEPT BY FIRE.

Wellsville, N. Y., Aug. 24.—At 3 o'clock this morning fire swept this town, doing damage estimated at more than a quarter of a million dollars Confusion in Wellsville is so great it is impossible to learn if anyone is missing, although authorities believe no one has been killed

The damage amounts to $250,800.

Originating in Duke's garage from an undetermined cause, the fire swept the large wooden structure in a few minutes Twenty-six automobiles in the garage were destroyed. From Duke's garage the fire spread to a grocery store conducted by W. L. Benedict. The wind fanned the flames through the structure along Loder street, through 14 business buildings A mammoth heap of smoking ruins is all that remains of Wellsville's biggest business blocks.

COMES FAMILY HOLDS ITS TWENTY-FIRST REUNION

Galco Park the Scene of Merry Occasion; Number of out-of-Town Relatives Present

The Comes family held their twenty-first annual reunion at Galco Park last Thursday.

The weather man was not in favor, but in spite of that fact a large number of relatives were present A chicken dinner was served at 1 p. m., and a buffet lunch at 6:30 p. m.,

The business meeting was called at 3,30 p. m., by L. Dickinson, vice president. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. C. Dickinson, Tuttle, Oklahoma; vice president, L. H. Dickinson; secretary Christel Comes: treasure, Mrs. Frank Gallup; trustee, M. S. Comes.

The out of town relatives present were: C. W. Dickinson, Miss Ada Ness, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Pdney Holden and childern, Kane, Pa; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Holden and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holden and son, Mr. and Mrs. Buell Strang and son, Port Allegany, Pa; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Holden and son, Winton, N. Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Comes and Sons,-Elmer and Carl, Grenola, Kansas.

FEATURES OF SMETHPORT'S PART IN KANE EVENTS

The Smethport Legion ball team lost to Port Allegany by the score of 10 to 5.

Bob Hull pitched for the locals and was batted for five runs in the first inning.

The locals played poorly, wranglings were frequent, and the umpiring erratic.

Bradford, who won over Kane on Tuesday by the score of 9 to 2, will clash this afternoon with Port Allegany in the titular contest.

The hub-and-hub race was won by the Smethport firemen against Mt. Jewett and Kane.

Smethport's time was 26 seconds flat, Mt. Jewett's the same, and Kane's 26 1-5. Mt. Jewett was disqualified because the leader ran in harness.

The local team was composed of Howard Workley, Roy Engstrom, Lloyd Kohn, Arthur McDermott, William Howe and John Malcolm.

The local team composed of the same runners, with Paul McCarthy in place of John Malcolm, was third in the relay race. Kane won.

CANDIDATES FILE PETITIONS

Tuesday was the last day for the filing of petitions by aspirants for political positions, the nominations of which will take place at the primaries on Tuesday, September 20th.

Clerks in the commissioners' offices in the court house were rushed throughout the day by persons eager to have their names legally listed before the expiration of the time limit.

Nearly five hundred candidates from all parts of the county filed their petitions.

But seven candidates for the local offices have announced their intentions of running for office.

The following is a list of those who made their petitions from Smethport, Keating township, and those for the two county positions.

A. W. Colegrove, Republican, justice of the peace.

R. C. Gleason and William Glavin, Republicans, for tax collector.

Thomas H. Morrison, Thomas F. Hungiville and Mrs. Bessie Daly, on both Republican and Democratic tickets, for school directors.

John Karlen, for councilman.

Those running for county offices are:

J. L. Morrison, Republican and Mrs. Della H. Spanogle, Prohibition, of Smethport, for Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Charles F. Guenther, Republican and Democrat, of Bradford; Claude H. Heath, Republican, East Smethport, and Mrs. Eva W. Sullivan, Prohibition, for jury commissioner.

Those for Keating township offices:

Claude Irons, Fred H. Nourse and B. L. Hyde, Republicans, and W. I. Oviatt, Democrat, for road supervisor.

Ella Brockham and Henry J. Rice, Republicans, for tax collector.

Golda M. Acker and S. D. Crawford, for auditor.

W. L. Burdick and Mrs. Victoria Oviatt, for school director.

F. L. Thornton, Republican, first district, for assistant assessor, and Leon Curtis, Republican, assistant assessor in second district.

A pronounced political apathy is shown by the failure of anyone to file petitions for burgess or auditors in Smethport. There are to be four borough council vacancies and yet there is but one applicant

Such a lack of political enthusiasm has never before been so evident it is said.

The offices for which no one is seeking will be voted upon by writing in names on the ballot.

GIRLS! DON'T LET THEM PUT THIS OVER ON YOU

Although local women now have the right to vote, one of their most cherished privileges is now threatened.

Kissing may be restricted.

An epidemic of blisters and eczemous rash about the mouth of those affected is sweeping the state, until now several cases have been seen here.

Starting at Uniontown and towns in that vicinity, the rash was then noticed in Curwensville, Pa., and at Bradford. And now it is right in our midst, and going strong—presumably because of osculation.

We are wondering whether the affection will spread to such an extend that the Board of Health will be forced to take action, such as banning the dainty art of kissing. Such rules have been urged in Uniontown and Curwensville, and, of course, if it comes to the worst something of the sort will be compulsory in our midst.

While not all persons affected with the blisters and rash are in their teens and early twenties, a great majority of them are at what is known as the "kissing age."

We have been noticing quite a number of persons about town within the past week or so who have been endeavoring to cover up the result of their—er, indiscretions—namely, the aforesaid rash.

Last year about this time the same sort of affection appeared in town. One young lady suspected of being of osculatory persuasion was in severe pain from the many sores on her face.

Knowing, or rather hearing, of the leaning Smethport girls have toward disportments of osculation, it is pretty certain, however, that even though the rash does continue to sprea dhere, and the Board of Health is called upon to take measures, the local ladies will not relinquish this cherished privilege without voicing their protests long and laud.

WIN FROM SHEFFIELD

Smethport won over Sheffield last Sunday, but almost didn't.

Up until the ninth inning, it looked like Sheffield was going to take the game back home tucked away in their bat bags by the score of 4 to 2.

But something happened which made them unpack the old ball game and hand it right over to Smethport.

Peeler was the first man up, and he cut loose with a single. Tommy Clark struck out. Deuning also singled. Then with two on, Gallagher slammed out a corking three-bagger that the fielders couldn't reach. Both runners came home and tied the score with Gallagher perched on third. Then Louie Hull did what was expected of him, and poled out a two-base hit which secured Gallagher and won the game.

It was one of the most exciting finishes seen here this season.

The battery work of Clark and Peeler was superb. Clark struck out eight men, while Peeler's arm nipped two runners off first and two off third, when they strayed too far from the safety of the bags. Also he caught two at home plate.

The score follows:

HAFNER FAMILY REUNION HELD ON WEDNESDAY

The seventh annual reunion of the Hafner family was held at Galco Park on Wednesday.

The day was not all that could be desired and the attendance not as large as formerly, but those present had a most delightful time.

Dinner was served at 1:30, after which a business meeting was held. The usual business was transacted and the following officers elected: President, Mrs. Stella Martin Rumsey; vice president, Mrs. Della Hafner Spanogle; secretary Miss Irene McCarthy; treasure, Mrs. Bett Hafner McKean.

Those present—from a distance were: William Hafner and daughters, Alice and Gertrude, Brockwayville; Earl P. Hafner, Buffalo; Mrs. Minnie Reed and daughter, Birdina, and Mr. and Mrs. Garth Rumsey and son, Martin of Bradford. The other members were from Port Allegany, Clermont, Kasson and Smethport.

A letter from Mr. and Mrs. George H. Graft, Enid, Okla., stating their regrets that they were unable to be present this year as they had planned was received too late to be read at the association meeting.

This is American Legion day at Kane.

Smethport's delegation is taking a prominent part in the athletic events, parade and other entertainments, and it is to be hoped that they will be as successful today as the Bucktail Post delegates were at the American Legion convention on Tuesday.

It was then and at the banquet at night that E. G. Potter, district attorney, made known the memorial hall project, which will be located here, and secured the hearty endorsement of every post in the county as well as promised support.

Dr. Ostrander and the other delegates told freely of what Bucktail Post was doing here and made known the fact that the local body was second to none in the county.

Today, beginning at 10 o'clock, at the Pennsylvania Railroad grounds, the following events will be held:

100-yard dash, 200-yard dash, 440-yard dash, one mile run, half-mile relay, 120-yard high hurdle race, high jump, shot-put, pole vault, broad jump. A loving cup for the team winning the largest number of points will be presented.

At 1:30 o'clock the parade will form.

Kane fire police, marshal and aides will be in the first line.

First division—G. A. R. and chief burgess, World War nurses in automobiles, Sheffield fife and drum corps, Company M, 112th Infantry, P. N. G. 3rd Headquarters Company, 112th Infantry.

Second division—Bradford Band, John H. Roche Post, Bradford; Myron Burns Post, Eldred; James Uber Post, Ludlow.

Third division—Port Allegany Band; Frank Burns Post, Port Allegany.

Fourth division—Mt. Jewett Band, Cleveland-Johnson Post, Mt. Jewett.

Fifth division—Smethport Band, Bucktail Post, Smethport.

Sixth division—Lieut. Raymond A. Nichols Post, Kane; James A. Hennessey Post, Sheffield; Wilcox Post, St. Mary's Post, Johnsonburg Post, Ledden Young Post, Ridgway.

Seventh division—Kane Band, Women's Auxiliary American Legion in autos.

Later there will be various entertainments, including a baseball game between legion posts of Port Allegany and Bradford.

Mayor Woods of Kane made the speech of welcome to the visiting delegates on Tuesday and District Attorney Potter replied in kind. Then he read the act of the Assembly calling for an American Legion memorial hall at each county seat, told how far the plans had progressed so that a petition was in readiness to be presented this fall to the first of the two necesary grand juries, and hoped that the posts of the county would endorse the plan. The speech was conclusive and thorough and showed the rest of the county posts just what was going to be done in the matter.

Speakers from other post gave their endorsement to the plan.

Bucktail Post came in for a hearty compliment from State Adjutant Murdock, the speaker of the evening. He paid a tribute to the Bucktail brigade of the Civil War, and stated that he was glad that there was now a legion post named in honor of that famous troop.

The local delegation was much gratified at being thus singled out.

Doctor Ostrander's speech in the morning, when he told what the local post was doing for the community, was interspersed with humor that received much laughing applause. He said he didn't know whether the post was going to "marry" the Women's Auxiliary here, or not. In the evening also he made a short address, although he couldn't see much "conversation" in the grape juice offered.

It was decided that the delegates from this end of the state should go to the state convention at Pittsburgh in September with a definite program, so that this section should not be side-tracked when the "plums" fell.

Port Allegany will hold the county convention next year.

New York, August 18.—Friends of Professor Edmund Heller, distinguished naturalist an collaborator with the late Theodore Roosevelt were today anxiously awaiting word from the Yellowstone Park guides, who were instructed last night by telegraph to search for the professor following the arrival of a carrier pigeon in New York bearing an SOS message, purporting to come from Professor Heller is lost on the slopes of Hoodoo mountain in Yellowstone Park.

The carrier pigeon bearing the message was discovered last night, completely exhausted, by a policeman on Broadway. Attached to its legs was a message addressed to Dan Singer at the Hotel Belleclare, reading: "I am lost, Hoodoo Mountain, Yellowstone. Send help, provisions and pack horses —Heller

Singer was notified at once and telegraphed to Wyoming friends to institute immediate search for Heller.

The note borne by the carrier pigeon was dated August 13, which means that the bird traveled some two thousand miles in four days. Pigeon fanciers' today declare that this was an extraordinary feat for a bird to perform.

SLEEPS AS HE DRIVES; COMES TO GRIEF

Ridgway, August 18.—A nap of few seconds' duration nearly caused fatal results to T. H. Duffee his sister, Dorothy, and a brother, Austin, when the Nash car which Theodore was driving left the road on North Broad street, a block past the brick works, went down over a steep three-foot embankment, crashed into a tree and finally stopped against a fence, late Wednesday evening.

Mr. Duffee, with his brother and sister, was returning from Bradford, where they had spent the day. The continual vibratton on the concrete road from Johnsonburg to Ridgway at the end of his drive, lulled him to sleep, with the result that the auto was without a driver when the turn in the road at the point where the car left the street was reached.

Persons who hav examined the place where the auto went over the three foot bank say that it was only a miracle that prevented it from overturning. A large maple tree in front of 713 North Broad undoubtedly kept the car on its four wheels, as the side of the Nash, near the right rear wheel, struck it. The auto righted itself and kept on going until the fence at the end of the lot was struck.

Although the occupants of the car were shaken up considerably, no one was injured.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER.

It is said that an ancient Chinese sage who lived in the second century was offered a bribe. His silence being accepted as hesitation, he was assured that he was perfectly safe, as no one knew it. He replied:

"Heaven knows it. Earth knows it. You know it. I know it. How can you say no one knows it?"—New York Evening Post.

BALM FOR RAINY VACATIONS

"Weather Insurance" Designed to Give Monetary Solace to Travelers That Are Unfortunate.

Got all your vacation togs? Got your fishing tackle, your round trip ticket, your mosquito lotion and your rain insurance?.

Yes, there's balm in Gilead at last for the bitterest of human tragedies. For there's no denying that a rainy vacation is a worse catastrophe than a collision of planets, even if the latter involved the wiping out of all one's wife's relations.

The balm consists of a bet made with you by an insurance company that it won't rain during your vacation. In other words, you take out a rain policy for that period. And then, if it happens to pour cats and dogs all the time you have the consolation of collecting a tidy sum of rain insurance when you return to town. You may be so constituted that the money would fail to console you for the lost vacation days, but there are other fellows who would pray for rain in order to "beat the company."

The idea comes from England, where all sorts of freak insurances are practiced. Records of the United States weather bureau are used to figure out rates based on the probabilities of precipitation in any given part of the United States and Canada. One insurance company points with pride to the fact that last year it paid $11,213.25 to the Waltham fair on account of loss due to a rainy day, the fair corporation having taken out a rain policy. And the Kansas free fair at Topeka was protected by a $25,000 rain policy with a British company.

Otters Cared For.

A pair of fully developed otters have been discovered in a slough along the Brandywine, near West Chester, Pa., and have been watched with interest by many persons.

They are the only ones reported in Chester for probably 40 years, and are very carefully protected by the owner of the property where they have made a den in a bank beside the still water.

The animals are said to be about four feet in length and very active. It is believed a number of young may be produced in the den beneath the bank and prove the founding of a colony which will arouse much future interest.

THE "DOUGHBOY OF IDAHO"

Striking Statue Recently Selected by State's War Memorial Commission, Is Lifelike Study.

It's a far cry indeed from the stiff-necked, primly dressed recruit which flooded America after the armistice is the sculptured representation of the American fighter to the shirt-sleeved, delightfully informal "Doughboy of Idaho," recently selected by the state's war memorial commission to symbolize Idaho's contribution to the World war. The statue, work of Avard Fairbanks, Portland, Ore., and Salt Lake City, Utah, artist, is the most lifelike study of the A. E. F. infantryman as the Boche saw him that American artists have produced, according to both the ex-infantryman and those who have sought to immortalize him in bronze and stone.

Statue Adopted by Idaho.

The Idaho commission has ordered that all counties of the state have memorials alike in character with the addition that Mr. Fairbanks' "Doughboy" be the main feature of each county's memorial. The American Legion of Idaho has been warm in its commendation of the statue and Mr. Fairbanks has returned the compliment by informing the service men that: "I am convinced that the American Legion can be a tremendous power in education and in honor and in the glory of our great government. I am indeed enthused with the loyal stand on Americanism which the Legion is holding out for."

LEGION MAN UNION OFFICER

California Organization Adjutant Well Known for Activities With Fellow Laborers.

Fred F. Bebergall of San Francisco, who is now serving his second term as department adjutant of the American Legion in California, is one of the most active Legion officers in his state. Bebergall also is well-known for his activities in labor union circles.

Bebergall's life history is the same in some details as that of many successful men. His father died when he was nine years old and he went to work. He obtained his education at night schools and as he expresses it—the "good old college of hard knocks."

As a union official Bebergall has served in nearly every office of the San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21, and as assistant secretary of the California State Federation of Labor.

He was twice rejected for military service on account of impaired vision, but finally obtained a waiver from the secretary of war and was enrolled in the medical department of the United States army. He served as a member of Base Hospital Company No. 87 in France and was discharged June 30, 1919, at San Francisco as a sergeant, first class. He immediately became interested in the American Legion and was one of the organizers of the California department.

BRADFORD IS AFTER CITY-MADE LIGHT

Bradford, Aug. 20.—The proposed referendum at the November elections authorizing a bond issue by the City of Bradford for the purpose of erecting and operating a municipally owned electric plant for the purpose of furnishing lighting for the streets and light and power for the fire stations, city hall and other public buildings was the subject of a public discussion by Mayor Spencer M. DeGoller at an open air meeting in the public square last night.

As explained by the mayor, such a plant would be limited to municipal uses only and could not be operated for commercial purposes unless the present plant owned by the Bradford Electric Company could be purchased by the city. It was stated that the city solicitor had requested a figure from the present owners on their plant and entire equipments, but that no quotations could be secured.

From the estimate of an expert engineer, who investigated the matter thoroughly in 1913 and again more recently, the mayor asserted that a plant with all necessary equipment to furnish light for at least 500 street lights, and power for other city purposes could be built for approximately $111,800. Such a plant, it was stated, would cost, according to ample estimates, about $24,400 annually to operate.

The speaker submitted figures showing that during the past 20 years the City of Bradford has paid to the Bradford Electric Light and Power Company and its successor, the Bradford Electric Company, the sum of $223,400 for its service. The present cost of each street light per year was said to be $16.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR CAPTURE OF MURDERER

Coudersport, August 17.—A reward of $500 is offered by the County Commissioners of Potter County, Pennsylvania, for the arrest and detention of William Meyers, who perpetrated a double murder, having killed two men, Arch Carling and Mark Brown, in Hector township, Potter County, Pennsylvania, on the night of August 10th, 1921.

Following is a description of the fugitive, William Meyers: He is about 38 years of age. He is about 5 feet, 7 or 8 inches in height. Weighs about 135 pounds. Light complexion, blue eyes, clean shaven.

The initials, "W. M." said to be tatooed on one arm. When escaping from the scene of crime, he was wearing a work shirt, color blue; a blue coat, corduroy trousers, a pair of new tan shoes. He had in his possession some ten, twelve or thirteen dollars, and probably a 32-calibre revolver. He has spent from 9 to 12 years in the navy, recently been employed at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county, New York.

In case of arrest and detention, notify:—C. C. VanDeBoe, District Attorney, Shinglehouse, Pa., N. P. Clark, sheriff of Potter county, Coudersport, Pa.

DUBOIS RECEIVES ITS FIRST AERIAL MAIL

Kane, August, 20.—The first aerial mail has been delivered in DuBois. At 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, 45 minutes after a letter had been written to him in Bellefont, A. F. Kuhn, the South Brady street motorcycle dealer, was reading it. The letter was an order for supplies from the aerial mail field at Bellafonte, and had been dropped from the westbound mail plane pasing over this city at 9 o'clock. It was picked up by James Thompson who saw it drop in Knarr street and delivered it to Mr. Kuhn at once.

Although the air course over DuBois had carried many tons of first class mail both eastward and westward, it is unusual that during the two years service, no mail should have reached this city. The failure of the community to take advantage of its location on the flying course between New York and Chicago and provide a suitable landing harbor here, is the cause. And even yesterday's mail would not have been delivered had it not been for the fact that L. F Bishop, one of the mail pilots, had made a purchase at the Kuhn shop while "sitting in" here a month ago and needed some "parts."

SOME STORE! POURS LIQUOR ON CUSTOMERS

Ridgway, August 22.—A Ridgway woman was startled while shopping a Main street store Saturday, to feel a trickle of some kind of liquor dropping on her head and neck. She jumped back from under the supposed stream of water, which was coming through the ceiling above, and instinctively put her hand to the back of her neck. A peculiar aroma seem to haunt the atmosphere. A close-up sniff at the moistened hand soon brought out the startling knowledge that the supposed water was real, honest-to-goodness wine.

U. N. G. MAILING BACK REBATES TO PEOPLE

Bradford, August 22.—The United Natural Gas company has completed arrangements for refunding the excess collected from gas consumers on its line.

The rebates will be made under the agreement reached at a hearing before the Public Service commission on July 6 at Pittsburgh, when the cities and boroughs served by the company agreed to discontinue protest against the increase from a net rate of 35 to 60 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas on November 21, 1920, provided the company would grant a 50-cent rate, the same as the Public Service Commission had declared was equitable, and rebate to the consumers the difference between 50 cents and 60 cents per thousand for gas consumed between November 21, 1920, and July 15, 1921.

ROCKY KANSAS TO FIGHT FOR CHURCH.

Olean, August 18.—Olean boxing fans, who are legion, are going to see a snappy boxing exhibition next Saturday afternoon at Portville, when Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, regarded by many fistic sharps as the leading lightweight title contender, will meet Phil Logan, Jamestown, N. Y., as a special attraction at the joint picnic of the A. O. H. and the Sacred Heart church of Portville.

This unusual attraction was obtained by the Rev. F. J. Hunt on a trip to Buffalo this week, he having been in communication with Dan Rogers, manager of Kansas, and obtained the consent of both manager and boxer to appear on the picnic grounds and give the fans of Olean and surrounding territory an idea of what a wonderful and powerful fighter the "little Hercules of Buffalo" is.

HUGE BOILER AND TANK SHOP ERECTED AT BRADFORD.

Bradford, Aug. 20.—One of the most important additions to Bradford's industrial life in some time is the huge boiler and tank shop which is being erected by the Bovaird & Seyfang Manufacturing Company, in connection with their already large plant on Davis street, and will take the place of the old boiler shop, which was practically put out of commission by fire last spring, and which has been razed to make room for the fine new brick building which has already been started.

At the present time the workmen are installing the steel construction frame work and then the work of laying the brick wall will be hastened and it is expected now that the building will be entirely completed by fall.

The boiler shop will be L-shaped, the main part to be 80x230 feet in dimensions, while the other part of the L will be 107x140. The building will stand about 50 feet high, except in one part, which will house the hydraulic riveting plant, which will be 70 feet in height.

As business is dull just at this time few men have been employed in the boiler department, but it is expected that by spring business will have picked up and from 50 to 60 men will be employed in the new shop now under course of construction.

HORSES BRAVE UNDER FIRE

Animals Displayed Remarkable Coolness Even When Subjected to the Enemy's Heaviest Barrage.

The noble horse is a very calm animal under storms or dangerous circumstances. A remarkable example of the coolness displayed by horses amid the din of war was shown at the front in France, and the soldiers who had the opportunity to personally observe the aptitude of the faithful horse while under shell-fire can realize what an indispensable role was played in the World war by our good old domestic friends. Joseph R. Schadel writes in Our Dumb Animals.

While serving on the front in France I was more than once astonished and impressed by the actions of horses when the shells began to burst and the deadly gas spread its fatal wings over the field of battle. One night near Chateau-Thierry, a heavy barrage began to fall in our vicinity, and the horses, which were also open to the danger, did not scatter or run. Instead, three of them, following the example of the soldiers, lay down promptly and waited until the shelling was over. Only one of them was killed, and that poor fellow had remained standing.

Another time, while moving along a road that was under enemy observation, the shells started to burst on both sides of our column. But the good old horses plodded on; the greatest bravery was shown, and, fortunately, none was lost. In time, I hope, there will be more space allotted in history to the excellent part which horses played in the late war. Only the highest praise would be their just dues.

New Dickens Drama.

At a recent Charles Dickens dinner in London regret was expressed that dramatic versions of the Dickens novels are not more popular. Forthwith a certain Bransby Williams proposed to undertake to popularize the Victorian novelist in the theater. At Birkenhead he will accordingly institute a repertory season with adaptation of "David Copperfield," "Oliver Twist" and "Barnaby Rudge," to be written by members of the Dickens fellowship under the direction of said Mr. Williams.

Bonner's Winning Battle

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Bonner sat at the long table in the room of the Griffis Mailing company, addressing envelopes. Bonner could write twelve hundred a day, which netted him two dollars, and that meant a fair living at the hotel.

While he wrote he was watching the girl with the fair hair who, at another table, was busily sealing the envelopes with sponge and water-well. He had noticed her during the entire four days that he had worked for that particular company.

The girl was quiet and refined; she worked—how hard she worked! Bonner had walked home with her the evening before. She lived alone in a mean room in a meaner tenement, for which she paid three dollars a week to a hard-faced landlady, and she coughed incessantly. She was working to get the money to go west, where the clean air would cure her. She had seventy dollars saved by two years of toil, and she needed a hundred. Would she gain it before it was too late?

Bonner had forty-nine dollars. His room cost him a dollar and forty cents weekly, and he lived on food snatched at cheap lunch counters. Once he had been a civil engineer; then he gave way to the drink passion, a hereditary disease. He had addressed envelopes for two years; he found the labor one which permitted his thoughts to roam unchallenged and he had become the automaton that all addressers grow to be. He saved his money because he knew that soon the dreadful craving would clutch him by the throat again.

As Bonner went out he saw the girl's eyes fixed pityingly on his own.

Three hours later Bonner stood on the same block, fighting madly against his overwhelming passion. He had never fought so hard, but he knew that he could resist no longer. He pulled out his money and counted it, then turned back toward the saloon. Then he found his way barred and looked up into the face of the fair-haired girl. She had stopped impulsively and now stood before him, her hands outstretched.

"What is the matter?" she asked. "You are ill?"

An agony of remorse swept over him. He turned away into the empty yard of a factory and she followed him.

"Listen!" he said fiercely. "I am not ill—only fighting with my personal devil—the drink devil. You don't know what a devil that is. Take all my money." He thrust the bills into her hand. "Take it and go away and be cured. The money will save your life and I shall always remember that."

"O!" she cried impulsively, "we are both fighting losing battles. You, too! I knew! I knew you were suffering when I saw you in that room."

"Losing" battles. What if he should fight again, fight to win, as he might have fought if Edith had stood by him? A sudden resolution came into his soul and nerved his will to steel. He took her by the hands.

"Would you stand by me to the end, girl, if I fought to win?" he asked, and she nodded bravely.

"Then," he said triumphantly, "let us fight our battles together. Not here, but in the West, where one has a chance to live or one can die under the broad sky—as men and women should die or live. Will you?"

Suddenly the dirty factory yard had become an ante-chamber of heaven.

EDITORIAL.

Thursday, August 25, 1921.

The county convention of American Legion posts and volunteer firemen at Kane was a momentous occasion for the section.

Drawing visitors from all parts of the county and from different points in the state, Kane did itself proud in the fine manner with which it entertained the crowds.

The large number of persons from here can testify to the good time they had. They met their friends from other towns and made many new ones. Friendship is an invaluable assest, and all were benefitted.

The Kane convention will be long remembered.

THE SALESMAN.

Yonder comes the most important man in the world—the salesman. For the next 20 years America's prosperity will be in his hands.

He alone can bring in the orders that will start up the factories and restore good times.

And it is the salesman—not politicians—that will shape the course of delayed reconstruction when it begins.

Young men, looking about for a profession should carefully consider salesmanship. That is the advice of William Maxwell, vice president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., writing in the American Legion Weeky.

The salesman was eclipsed during the war, when goods were scarce and salesmanship was little more than order-taking.

But America enters into a great competitive era. The salesman has before him bigger fields to conquer than ever before. That means opportunity for the man who can really sell—tremendous opportunity.

Judge Gary predicts that, once readjustment in buiness is completed, the country will embark on one of the most prosperous periods in its history.

Salesmen will be needed to sell the big ideas, the securities to finance them, and the actual goods involved.

If you want to travel, salesmanship offers you the great field of international trade.—Olean Evening Times.

THE WAY OF HOPE

President Harding's call for the disarmament conference is full of hope for the nations now struggling under the burden of the great war. The President maintains that there is no use talking about disarmament unless agreement can be reached on the sort of problems which lead to war, and so he opens the door for general discussion of the questions now vexing the big powers.

Some of the men who assemble for that conference will arrive, in all probability, doubtful whether anything will come of it in the way of amicable settlement of disputes or any practical progress will be made in the reduction of arms. Public opinion must hold fast to the conviction that it is all not only ideal but practical, if these wavering brethren are to be held in line.

In the President's suggestion for formulating "proposals by which, in the interests of humanity, the use of the new agencies of warfare may be controlled," in a hint of what another war would be. The last one was bad enough.

The way is open. Let the people, by their faith in one another and their unwavering determination to be free of the burden and horror of war, keep statesmen headed in the right direction. —Olean Herald

THE FAIR PROGRESSIVE

The character of the state and county fairs has changed wonderfully in the last ten years. A tranformation has been worked in twenty years.

Most striking is the increased educational value of all of these fairs. Until today no institute carries the message of better farming to a larger number of people. This is more astounding for the average fair is in operation less than a week but in that short space thousands of people are informed of the progress made in improved farming during the previous twelve months and are instructed in new methods of agriculture and breeding.

State and county fairs are the tabloid farm colleges at which the farmer and his wife, their sons and daughters, receive the foundation ideas that last them for a lifetime. The increase in agricultural schools and colleges, the formation of clubs and social centers in farming communities, can be attributed in no small measure to the fairs.

They benefit everyone in the ninety-odd million people in the United States; the railroads extend and provide more rolling stock because of more and better farming; the bankers enlarge their deposits because the farmers by increasing the yield per acre have a profit instead of barely making both ends meet; the school and colleges have a greater attendance because the farmer can afford to send his children to them; the manufacturers sell more farm machinery, more household goods, more clothing.

The farmer acquires a new view point because of his visit to fairs. He cultivates a desire for the blooded horses and cattle he sees there, and he applies new methods, he learns so as to increase his crops with the same acreage and the same or less help in order that he may purchase the new things he sees and covets.

The improvement in all breeds of animals is largely due to the fairs. The farmer that, with the same amount of feed and attention, can grow a two hundred and fifty pound hog instead of a two hundred pounder, benefits not only himself but the ultimate consumer.

The improved views of the spectators are indicated almost as much by the things that have eliminated as by what have been added in the amusement line. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," indeed, and the entertainment afforded nowadays is not only that but educational as well. The farmer demands the best bands and soloists showing that he takes great interest in music, but the questionable and immoral side-shows are disappearing, being no longer the gold mines of a generation ago. With right living comes right and clean thinking.

The modern fair is a barometer of of the lives of the people. They are demanding the best in their homes and are equally as exacting when visiting the fairs, and this is due in no small measure to the seed planted by the fairs themselves. No successfull fair will ever greatly rise above the level of the people among whom it is located, but it will not be successful unless it keeps a step ahead.

MIDDLE AGE

Oh, Middle Age is a placid stream,
Yet a pleasant one, forsooth
Through its quiet ways and its calm,
Seem dull to the eyes of Youth!

But when one is spent with the turbulent
Mad rush of the hurrying stream,
With the swish and swirl of the eddying whirl,
One is glad to drift and dream.

For oh, but the river of Youth runs swift,
And the river of Youth runs deep;
The current is strong as it flows along
And the rocks at its sides are steep!

And strong be the oarsmen who keep afloat,
And many there be who drown
For some are tossed on the rocks and lost,
And some in the deeps go down!

But slow runs the river of Middle Age,
And, oh, it is good to rest!
No more to fear that the rocks are near—
To learn that repose is best!

There are long, sweet days in the quiet bays
At the side of a well loved one—
There to gently float in a well-tried boat
Down the path of the setting sun!

Oh, the river of Youth roars loud behind—
No more does it call to me!
Here the sunset gleam in the quiet stream,
And beyond—the untried Sea!

—Roselle Mercier Montgomery.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA SUBSCRIBER.

McKittrick, California,
August 15, 921.

The Miner, Smethport, Pa.
Dear Sir:

As I have been working here in the oil fields of Kern Co., Cal., for about two years, in the producing department of the Standard Oil Co., it occurred to me that a short description of the method used in drilling for oil here might prove interesting to readers of The Miner.

The operation is very different from the way I saw it done in Pennsylvania owing to the difference of soil formation. Instead of the hard rock, oil bearing sand found there, we find here a soft shifting sand similar to quicksand, which is very hard to handle and causes much trouble and expense in drilling, as it is necessary to carry the casing to the bottom of the well. One, say a 3,000 foot well, drilling, would be started with a 15 inch casing, and run to the first sand, which usually carries salt water. This pipe is cemented in with about 100 tons of cement, which shuts off the water and sand. The next sized pipe used would be a 12-inch, casing is carried right along with the drill which is an ordinary drill bit that is run a depth of 15 or 20 feet below casing.

Then they use what is called an Underrunner, which enlarges the hole so casing hangs free at all times, and as they encounter sand the casing is moved up and down at regular intervals to keep it from sticking. After drilling deep as is practical with this size pipe, it is cemented off as described above. Then it is followed with the 10-inch casing and same method is used as before, then next size, 8 inch, which usually reaches bottom, but sometimes it becomes necessary to put in smaller sizes before gaining desired depth.

Each stand of pipe reaches from the top of the ground to where it is cemented off, requiring a large amount of pipes to case an oil well in California. In the bottom of the string of pipes are 2 or 3 perforated joints, with a plug in the bottom called the "Heaving Plug," which prevents sand coming up in the pipe, but with all this precaution sand will get into some of the wells, until it is necessary to bale them out every few weeks. Part of the oil here in this section is of asphalt base, and consequently much thicker than paraffine oil, and looks much like tar from the "Chemical Works".

It is also of low specific gravity. The famous Elk Hills fields joining us on the Southeast, carry the high gravity oil of light color, as do also other fields near us. In drilling here they use two methods, one "The Standardo Cable Tools," same as I saw used here years ago, the other is the "Rotary System." Will not go into methods of drilling, as it would take up too much space in your paper.

Will say in concluding, that The Miner has followed me in all my travels throughout the west, and would not know how to do without it.

With best wishes,

George C. Irons.

BOYS AND GIRLS TO COMPETE IN LIVE STOCK CONTEST.

A contest in judging livestock will be held at the McKean County Fair at 10:30 a. m., Wednesday September 14. This is the fifth annual judging contest held in the county and a large number of contestants is hoped for.

Holmes and Gilfillan of the Royalba Farm have donated a purebred Holstion bull calf which is to be given to the boy or girl with the highest score in the contest. The sire of this calf is a son of Sir Inka Prilly Segis and the calf's mother a granddaughter of the same bull. This bull has 100 daughters of which more than half have A. R. O. records. Four of these have yearly records between 21,00 and 24,000 pounds of milk or in other words, from 10½ to 12 tons in a year. A sister of the sire of this bull as a 2-year-old made a 24,827 pound record. A prize of this kind ought to be worth two months work instead of two hours.

For the second prize in the contest, Mr. J. D. Mather of the O. K. Farm has contributed the best ewe lamb in his flock.

Any boy or girl in the county between the ages of 12 and 21 years should be only too glad to send their names to the Farm Bureau Office and secure free admission to the Fair for the day of the contest where they will be permitted to take part in the judging work.

PUBLICITY AS CRIME CHECK

Sociologist Says the Newspapers Make Life Hard for Criminals of Every Description.

"Blame the newspapers for making the role of the criminal harder today than it was twenty or thirty years ago," said M. C. Elmer of the sociology department, University of Minnesota, according to the Minneapolis News.

"The swindler of a few years back had a downy feather bed to lie on compared to followers of his footsteps today," he continued. "In those days, the same gang would work a skin game in one town a week, and then move to the next stop and do the same thing the following week. Not now, however. The newspaper is the barrier. If a clever swindle is worked in Mexico or Honolulu the news is on the wires at once, and the whole world knows it in a couple of hours, and the little game is killed."

Contrary to general opinion, crime is not any greater in proportion to population today than twenty years ago, according to Mr. Elmer. It is just that the number of criminals has increased with the growth of population, he said.

Mr. Elmer exploded another popular fancy when he said that he believes that criminals are not any bolder today than in years past.

"It is the newspapers again," he said "The big jobs are given wide publicity and seem larger in the public mind than those of the past. But it isn't so. The James boys, the Youngers, and the Daltons had just as much nerve and put over jobs in their days just as big as anything you read about in the papers today."

Saving Screw Shavings.

Two thousand years seems a long time to wait for an improvement, but this has been the case with the screw.

Metal screws have been made since 236 B. C. The shank of the screw has been turned from a bar of metal having the diameter of the screw head, thus wasting a large proportion of the metal by reducing it to shavings.

A certain screw manufacturer has decided to alter this. A metal bar, of the diameter of the shank, is put into a matrix and subjected to enormous pressure. The head of the screw is thus expanded in the confined compartment, which gives it the desired shape. The only waste occurs in threading the screw and finishing the head.

Firestone
Again Reduces Price
Extra Size 30x3½ $16.65
Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid, May 2. Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3½ size, made this possible. Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3½ tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for our Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Cords That Don't Blow Out

You feel secure on Firestone Cords. Because Firestone Cords don't blow out. Your repair man will tell you he hasn't seen a blowout this past year—10,000, 15,000 and 20,000 miles, and the tires still going strong. See your Firestone dealer today. Name below.

Firestone Cord Tires are being sold at lowest prices in cord tire history: 30x3½—$24.50 32x4—$46.30 34x4½—$54.90

An Old Signet Ring

By HAROLD SINCLAIR

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Fifty dollars is not a great deal of money, but it appeared a fortune to Alvin Morrison. He was young, he had always had to earn his own living. He had to endure the misfortune of working in a store owned by a relative, who promised a great deal and never redeemed his promise. A sense of family duty and the uncertainty of finding employment, kept Alvin pegging along in the same old rut.

In the spring, Nettie Bridges, who lived one hundred miles away from Wayne, came to visit a friend. Alvin met her. They mutually fell in love. When they parted, Nettie was willing to wait, and Alvin to work, and they talked of meeting again next year, instead of next week, as most impatient modern lovers do.

Then Alvin set to work to save. He got some extra night work. He saved up fifty dollars. Right on top of it came a glad, hopeful letter from Nettie. The father of a girl friend wanted a clerk. His line was good, he would pay liberal wages. Nettie had spoken a word for her lover friend. Alvin wrote to the merchant at Hopedale. A reply accepted his application and he was to report in a week.

"It's a wonderful place," declared Alvin, after his first day in the big city. "I could spend a month here and not see half the sights."

The second day, he sat on a bench in a public park. A man came limping up to him, sat down, and moved about so helplessly and in such apparent pain, that Alvin noticed him sympathizingly.

"Are you ill?" finally inquired Alvin, feeling pity for anyone in trouble.

"Worse than that," said the man with a groan. "I'm going to a hospital this afternoon."

"That is really too bad," commented honest Alvin. "I do hope you will get better."

The man shook his head in dismal hopelessness. Then he edged closer to Alvin, looked all around them and said in a low, confidential tone:

"If you had a little money, young man, I could easily help myself and double what you had."

"Why, how is that?" inquired Alvin, his curiosity fully aroused.

"Well, I'll tell you. Read that."

The man drew a morning newspaper from his pocket and handed it to Alvin, his finger indicating an advertisement reading:

"Lost: An old signet ring bearing a seal with the initial 'S.' Inside is the inscription: 'L. to S. 1804.' An old family relic. Will pay two hundred dollars for its return to 11412 Ninety-first avenue."

"I found that ring."

He took from his pocket a big circlet as he spoke. Alvin looked it over.

"Why, it's the very ring, isn't it?" he exclaimed.

"Of course it is," assented the man.

"Why, I should think you would return it right away," suggested Alvin.

"Humph.—I'm in nice trim to do that; I can hardly walk," retorted the man. "I must get some money right away. You notice there is a reward of two hundred dollars offered. Say, you can help me. Find somebody who will give me forty dollars cash for the ring, and I'll give you ten dollars for your trouble."

"See here," Alvin said finally, "I have a little money."

The deal was made. Alvin had just six dollars left out of his fifty after the transaction. He was elated as he took a street car. He reached his destination at last—a vacant lot!

Slowly it dawned upon Alvin that he had been swindled.

Alvin paused as he came to a building bearing the sign "Police Station." He entered it quite hopelessly, but recited his story to the sergeant.

"Why, say," observed the latter, after smiling at his visitor's gullibility, "that ring description sounds sort of familiar to me," and he scanned a complaint book. "Here we are," he continued. "That ring was among a lot of valuable jewelry stolen a month ago. You wait here."

The official telephoned. In about an hour a portly well-dressed gentleman appeared in his automobile. The sergeant explained to him. He was the person whose home had been robbed.

He was greatly pleased to recover the ring, valuing it greatly as an old family heirloom.

Mr. Seward, the man who had been robbed, insisted on taking Alvin home with him. The next day the swindler was arrested, and the remainder of the plunder was recovered at pawn shops.

When Alvin left the city, he carried a present of one hundred dollars from Mr. Seward. Alvin with his doubled nest egg and his eye teeth cut, soon became a partner with his new employer. Then he married the girl of his choice, who, of course, was the girl who had waited for him.

Evidently the Booby.

"Kitty got the prize at our cooking class."

"How proud she must be. What is it?"

"That useful book, 'What to Do Before the Doctor Comes.'"

An Irish Assurance.

"An' do you think Mike will pull through, doctor?"

"If he can pull through the next two hours, he ought to be able to hold out the rest of his life."

BRIDGE OVER GRAND CANYON

Kaibab Plateau and Forest Will Be Opened to Tourists Some Time This Summer.

The suspension bridge over the Colorado river in the Grand canyon is practically completed. Late this summer it will be possible to ride from El Tovar on the south rim of the stupendous chasm, to the Kaibab plateau, on the north rim.

The bridging of the Granite gorge of the Colorado opens up a new wonderland in the Grand Canyon National park. From the Kaibab plateau, which averages 1,000 feet above the better known south rim of the canyon, new and amazing panoramas are presented.

The completed bridge will be 420 feet along the roadway, with a span of 500 feet from center to center of the bearings. The two main steel cables are placed about ten feet apart and anchored to the canyon walls 80 feet above the floor level by means of sections of railroad iron set in the rock with concrete.

Hanging galvanized steel cables, clamped to the main lines above, carry the wood floor of the bridge. A seven-foot wire meshing is strung along the sides as a protection for animals and pedestrians.

The bridge is 60 feet above the river in normal flow and 13 feet above the highest known water mark in June floods. This is the only bridging of the Colorado above Needles, Cal., 360 miles to the south by river curve, as you "step it off" on the map.—Harriet Chalmers Adams in National Geographic Magazine.

WILL BUILD "SACRED WAY"

France's Idea for Memorial to the Fallen Soldiers of All Nations Is Beautiful.

The French have a happy instinct of doing the right thing where sentiment is concerned; they have a sense of rightness in these things where we sometimes blunder. Wherever one goes in England there may be seen memorials of the Boer war that leave much to be desired; perhaps that is why the memorials of the great war are so much better. And about the cenotaph has grown up, become established, a custom that will live; it is rare to see a man pass that impressive monument in Whitehall without raising his hat in token of respect.

The members of the French and foreign press met recently at the mayoral offices of the Bar le Duc for the purpose of creating a committee of the allied press in connection with the proposal to erect, in Bar le Duc, the starting point of the "Sacred Way," an arc de triomphe in memory of the obscure soldiers of all nations and races who died in the defense of right and liberty. The "Sacred Way" is a long and picturesque route, starting at Bar le Duc and ending at Verdun. This way is regarded as the route that gave victory, the only one which remained free and by which the Verdun front was kept supplied with food, guns and munitions.

Record Air Flight.

The longest commercial passenger flight in Canada was accomplished recently when an airplane with pilot, passenger, and mechanic, flew from Winnipeg, Man., to The Pas, Sask., a distance of 478 miles. The flying time for the trip was six hours twelve minutes, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The long flight was made without previous arrangements having been made for landing grounds, gasoline, etc. The landing at Hudson Bay Junction had to be made in a "muskeg," or swamp, there being no other place, and great difficulty was experienced in "taking off." This is the first machine to fly north of 53 degrees latitude in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Ontario. On its arrival at The Pas, tremendous excitement ensued, and Indians from afar came by the score to view the "Thunder Bird," as one old Cree Indian appropriately named the machine.

New Building Material.

An all-mineral substitute for wood, composed of Portland cement, sand and asbestos fiber, has been found to serve excellently as a base for walls, floors, etc., as, being cellular in structure, it takes nails easily and holds them firmly. The new material, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, has the advantages over wood of being fire and warpproof. This latter quality makes it especially suitable for use as a subflooring when composition floors are used, as cracking of the latter is said to be eliminated. As it has the property of holding nails well, interior wood trimming and shingles may be nailed directly to the new base material. It is also said to possess good insulating qualities.

A Not Surprising.

There was recently erected in a western town an orthopedic hospital, the architectural features of which became the subject of discussion between two members of a club, the one a physician and the other an architect.

"What do you think of it as a building?" asked the medico.

The architect smiled. "Externally," he observed, "the design is modern, and internally the treatment is somewhat severe, as is usual in a hospital."

Alert Calculation.

"How do you figure that this small fat is worth as much as the larger one?"

"It saves you money. You don't have to buy so much furniture."

USED CARS

Now is the time to buy your used car. If you are mechanically inclined you have the winter season at your disposal in which to become acquainted with it, polish it up, equip it with the little features you would like your car to have and be ready when spring comes, to start a season's motoring with a knowledge of your car and pride in it's appearance. We have a few good, small used cars on hand. Will gladly demonstrate. Easy terms of payment.

1917 OVERLAND—FOUR CYLINDER touring car. Recently overhauled. Five good tires.

1918 CHALMERS touring car. Five cord tires, practically new.

1917 STUDEBAKER touring car with four almost new cord tires and extra fabric tire.

The mechanical condition of all these cars is first-class.
